

Mantis BT

The Mantis Bug Tracking system is an Open Source (GPL) web based application for tracking and managing project issues. More information on the Mantis system can be found at <http://www.mantisbugtracker.com>.

AsIs Technologies has been involved with several implementations of the Mantis system: although most have been private (that is to say, for internal use), a couple have been public facing systems. Our clients include a company that develops products throughout the entire Pacific Rim, with hundreds of employees and dozens of products.

Through our extensive knowledge of the Mantis system, we have been able to gain the permissions necessary to commit our changes directly to the main Mantis product. This means that when working with AsIs Technologies, the advantages include both the ability to include major changes to the software for your own use, as well as the ability to get these changes included into the main product if you wish. Trust us when we say, this definitely helps when the next version of the product comes out!

Feel free to contact us for more details on what we can help you achieve with your own Mantis tracking system.
